

Rebekah Paczek

Academic qualifications: BA (Joint Honours) Politics and Communications

Summary of experience:

Rebekah has over 10 years experience specialising in providing policy and political analysis and advice; community and media relations and planning support to the property and regeneration sector. Working across national and local government, Rebekah has covered a breadth of industry sectors and issues. She has worked for a range of clients across the public and private sector, providing specialist advice and implementation on government policy, stakeholder management, effective community engagement in planning and media relations.

Over recent years, community engagement and the politics of planning has become an increasingly important factor in property, planning, regeneration and development. The emergence of the Localism Bill and its component parts has increased the need for professional, specialist advice on issues at a national and local level. Rebekah is dedicated to providing a service which effectively marries the needs of the client with the existing political and local agenda.

Rebekah has worked across the country, with a particular focus in London, the South-East and the Midlands.
